Excerpt from Welcome to My World

"I was six years old when I first put on a pair of ice skates. I remember the feeling of the cold steel against my feet, and the way the ice glistened under the lights. I was hooked from that moment on."

"I spent the next few years training tirelessly, honing my skills on the ice. I loved the feeling of flying across the ice, and the way the music carried me away. Figure skating was my everything."

"But as I got older, I began to realize that there was more to life than just figure skating. I started to explore my other interests, such as fashion and music. I also began to question my sexuality, and I realized that I was gay."

"Coming out was one of the hardest things I've ever done. I was afraid of what people would think of me, and I was worried that I would lose my friends and family. But I knew that I couldn't live a lie any longer."

"I'm so glad that I came out. It was the best decision I've ever made. I'm now able to live my life authentically, and I'm surrounded by people who love and support me for who I am."
